School Salary Increases Stay Close to Government-Approved 5.5%

Princeton's 337 teaching staff members, and 17 people in administrative posts have signed with the taxpayers (represented by the board of education) for salary increases that hew closely to Washington's salary guidelines.

In dollar terms, teacher increases amount to $257,000—$49,000 more than the budget allowed for—and administrators' increases amount to $22,000. The salary package for teachers alone is $4,041,000, up from the current $3,784,100. The administration increase is up from $363,000 to $385,000.

Agreements were signed at an hour approaching midnight last week, after the regular school board meeting. The board has also signed agreements with 47 office workers and 21 full-time aides.

Negotiations began in earnest on February 9, right after school elections. Bargaining, especially with the Princeton Regional Education Association, the teachers' group, is done in a cool and professional manner resembling union contract talks in industry.

Gerald Dorf, Newark lawyer specializing in school and industrial negotiations, represented the school board. Philip Cruickshank and Hannah Fox were board members assigned to negotiations, assisted by board member Winthrop Pike and school board secretary, William Evans.

The board had budgeted $1,000 for Mr. Dorf's retainer; his per-hour bill has not yet been received, but it is expected to be in the $50-an-hour range.

For the PREA, Robert Parsons of the Community Park staff was chief, with Fred Carman of the high school's Latin department, chairman of the negotiating team. William Bux, PREA president, Barbara Silverstein of the high school staff and Patricia Van Ness of Johnson Park, represented PREA membership.

Toward the end of the talks, the PREA called in Paul McBride of the New Jersey Education Association, to act as advisor, but most of the negotiations were handled by the teachers themselves.

Two important "sweeteners" to the teachers' health insurance benefits were written into the new contracts. Teachers and their families will now get 365 days hospital care, instead of the former 120 days.

Also, there is a 50c deductible on prescription drugs for teachers and families; after the first 50c, the insurance company pays the rest.

Increases for the teachers zero in precisely on the 5.5% called for in Administration guidelines. However, the board discovered after the budget had been drawn up, that the standard increments in the teachers' scale are not included in that 5.5% limit.

These increments are the automatic raise a teacher gets simply by staying in the system another year. Even if no new contract were signed, a three-year teacher, for example, would receive an automatic raise by continuing for a fourth year.

Increments, for Princeton, amount to 1.7%, so the actual increase for teachers is not 5.5%,

Borough Gropes Way Out of Tax Labyrinth

"Some encouragement" was given Borough officials this week that Borough taxpayers won't be clobbered by a proposed law, drawn up in connection with Governor Cahill's tax package, that would reassign current school expenses on a rateables formula instead of the present per-pupil cost basis.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley said the encouragement had come in talks with Assemblymen John H. Ewing and Karl Weidel, following a letter from the mayor to Mr. Ewing outlining the Borough's position.

In his letter, the mayor asked the Assembly to amend Bill No. 1272 to allow regional school districts like Princeton and Hopewell to share current expenses on a per-pupil basis if they want to.

That is the way the present law reads. That is the way both Borough and Township voters wanted it when they voted in favor of regionalization in 1966.

Little Change Seen. Mayor Cawley pointed out that in Princeton, and probably other communities as well, a large portion of school expenses would continue to be raised locally, even if the new state tax policies were adopted. Inflation will increase costs, and enrollments are expected to decline, he said, warning that it may be harder to get school budgets passed.

Meanwhile, a group of Princeton Democrats who are specialists in economics and finance released a report this week showing how the tax-reform program might affect Princeton.

The group consisted of Abbot Low Moffat, chairman; Robert M. Hendry, Lester V. Chandler and Frederic A. Nicholson.

The report warns that Princeton's schools cannot expect any so-called "leeway" aid. "Leeway" is the money a district might like to spend over and above the rock-bottom state school allotment. No leeway aid would be given if a district's current expense per pupil exceeds the state-certified figure by 133%.

The current figure is $930 per weighted pupil (it was $843, a year ago when the studies began). Princeton has 4,505 "weighted pupils" under the state's formula. The cut-off point would be about $1,237 and Princeton's current cost is over $1,300.

A Gap Is Showing. Under the state's formula, Princeton would get $4,190,000 for current expenses of the school district. Leeway expenses to be met by local property taxes would be $1,707,000.

Even with additional property taxes, levied to pay the leeway, Princeton's total local taxes for schools (plus the state property tax) would still be $205,000 less than the present school tax, Mr. Moffat's committee calculates.

But the proposed Assembly bill calls for dividing the leeway of $1,707,000 on the rateables formula. At present, under the per-pupil cost of current expenses, the Borough pays 28% and the Township, 72%. If the new bill is passed, the Borough's share would jump from 28% to 34%, and this is the basis of Mayor Cawley's alarm.

The actual dollar amount varies, depending on how calculations are made. Borough Councilman Robert Hendry, who was on Mr. Moffat's committee, at first said $300,000 and then revised his figure downward to $250,000. Mr. Moffat's estimate is only a $124,000 increase.

Mr. Moffat's greater distress concerns the problem of transition for towns like Princeton that finance a school system on a fiscal year basis, to financing according to the calendar year. He foresees a disastrous period of adjustment unless the dislocation can be evened out.

Borough Hard Hit. For the property-owner, the state's tax proposals provide for a state tax at $1 per $100 of state equalized valuation (a different figure from the standard county's equalized valuation.)

In the Township, which recently re-assessed its property, this $1 would drop to only 92c. In the Borough, which hasn't re-assessed in recent years, it would be $1.26.

Mr. Hendry pointed out, in a press conference two weeks ago, that the new state proposals might spin Borough and Township tax rates so far apart that consolidation of the two Princetons could be indefinitely postponed.

The classic belief has been that when the tax rates of the two actually meet consolidation would be financially possible. But Mr. Moffat's figures show that a current difference of 98c in the Borough-Township rates, could spread to $1.31 under the new tax plan.

Income tax is also a subject for the Moffat study. If an individual has a Federal taxable income of $25,000, it would be reduced to $23,970 by payment of a New Jersey income tax. This in turn would reduce the Federal payment by about $412, bringing the net cost of the New Jersey tax from $1,030 to $618.

A Princeton resident earning $30,000 from a New York job would pay income-tax to New York state, but nothing at all to New Jersey because he would get credit from his New York tax. The picture would change, however, if he had dividend income besides the $30,000.

A senior citizen tax plan would be of "great benefit" to the community's 245 senior citizens now receiving property-tax deductions, the Moffat committee believes.

Scavengers Find Recycling Profitable

Scavengers may be looting the Township's piles of re-cyclable newspapers, and the Conservation Coalition asked Township Committee Monday night for an ordinance against the predators.

A neatly-tied stack of newspapers, curb-side, can be sold for good, re-cyclable cash. But theft of the newspapers cuts into the Rescue Mission's fortnightly take, and Township and Coalition are most anxious to have the Mission's project succeed.

The Coalition cited a Long Island ordinance that says newspapers in the public right-of-way belong to the municipality. Township attorney Gordon Griffin said the question was probably within the Township's regulatory powers, and he promised some action before next Monday's special Committee meeting.

A petition signed by 57 residents of the Hillcrest and Ridgeview Circle area asked action against gypsy moths. State officials have told the Township there isn't any more 1972 state money for spray, reported Administrator Joseph R. Nini, although the state is already making plans for a 1973 control program.

Many state officials don't think Princeton's gypsy moth population is worth the worry, reported Mrs. Edwin Hutter. She said the state had, however, set gypsy moth parasites loose in several parts of the Township as a biological control measure, hoping for success in two or three years.

Committeeman Barbara Smoyer asked for a status report on a Harrison-Valley traffic light. Engineer Joseph Hodak said he'd provided an intersection drawing at county request. Henry J. Frank, chairman of the Traffic Safety Committee, said the matter was in state and Federal hands, and the rest seems to be silence.

Mrs. Linda Berger and Robert W. King Sr. have both submitted their resignations from the Joint Commission on Civil Rights, Mrs. Berger because she is moving out of town, Mr. King for personal reasons.

Mayor John D. Wallace remarked that Mr. King not only was a charter member of the Commission, but had been a member of the study group assigned to decide whether a Commission should be formed.

School Salaries

but 7.2%. The new insurance package comes to .3%, and since Federal guidelines say fringe benefits don't count, the final percentage is 6.9%.

Paychecks for first-year teachers, just out of college, are $8,350, up from $8,090 for last year's beginners. The second year, the paycheck is $8,600, on to a top of $14,100 for a teacher who stays 13 years and never rises above a bachelor's degree.

Three at the Top. First year salary for a teacher with a master's is $9,150, and for a PhD, $10,650. The top pay in Princeton's school system is $17,300 for a teacher with a doctorate and 13 years' experience in teaching. Only three people on the staff have achieved this level.

But 39% of the teachers in the system are at the top of the salary guide, and this high percentage keeps salary budgets right there at the top.

Administrators' salaries, for the first time this year, were calculated on a new basis. Princeton has moved completely away from education degrees as a measure of administration capacity.

Now, there are formulae employing an "experience factor;" "responsibility factors" and the level in which the administrator operates in the district.

Varying Factors. For example, the "responsibility" factor considers the level of a principal's school—elementary? Middle School? High School? It also takes into account the number of pupils in the school.

Staff who operate across the whole district—curriculum coordinator, staff development director, special services—are given another factor.

Each factor is added, and the total is, of course, different for each administrator. The range of administrators' salaries is $21,000 to $26,000. This is for a 12-month contract, in contrast to the teachers' salaries which are only for ten months. The 5.5% increase maintains, with a .7 increment increase, for a 6.2% total.

Starting salary for a clerk-typist in Princeton's schools is now $4,845, and the grade climbs to $7,270 after 11 years' employment.

A regular, beginning secretary—there is nobody at this level at present — would get $5,195 with the chance to reach $7,970 after 11 years.

Hourly Pay Increased. One of the newest categories in Princeton's employment hierarchy is the "Aide." The school system has both full-time and part-time aides, and the part-time hourly pay will now be $2.90, up from $2.50 under the former agreement.

Many of these aides work only one or two hours a day, often on a fluctuating basis as they are needed.

The 21 full-time aides, who work teachers' hours, now start at $5,080, and those who work 20 hours or more, may tie into the new health-insurance benefits.

Agreements with the custodians haven't been signed yet.

Nor have contracts been settled with the handful of "non-affiliated" administrators who don't belong to any "union."

These, still awaiting their incremental fate, are Superintendent Philip E. McPherson; Associate Superintendent Wesley Johnson; Mr. Evans; Rnoald Novak, manager of financial services and his assistant, Gerald Moorcroft; William Karoh, facilities mangaer; Ralph Bennett, who supervises transportation; and Barbara Hurley director of food services.

About Re-cycling . . .

If you live in the Township and the re-cycling truck from the Rescue Mission happens to miss you Monday or Tuesday, just call the Township Engineer (921-7077) and the truck will come on Wednesday—provided you call no later than Tuesday afternoon.

If your pick-up of newspapers and bottles is missed late in the week, the truck will come on Saturday, if you call by late Friday.

Re-cycling in the Township went better last week, reported Engineer Joseph Hodak to Committee Monday night. With 15 tons collected, newspaper tonnage was 47% higher than the previous collection period; with 7.1 tons, glass was 60% higher.

The Rescue Mission estimates that one family in every four is participating. Mayor John D. Wallace says he would like to see four out of four.

VANDALS LEAVE MESS

At Witherspoon School. Vandals visited the John Witherspoon School on Sunday and left parts of it in shambles.

The damage was reported Monday morning at 7 by custodian Chris McDonald, who township police report had left the school intact at 1:45 Sunday afternoon. Police said the school was apparently entered through a door or a window of the library. Ptl. Olindo Carnevale is investigating.

According to Mr. McDonald, vandals overturned the refrigerator in the custodian's room, strewing cookies and milk on the floor; attempted to glue chairs to tables in the art room and made a glue trail on the floor; punched irreperable holes in 56 accoustical ceiling tiles in the main atrium, and broke glass showcases in the atrium; took the fire extinguisher from the science classroom and spread its chemical powder all over the room, hallways and a girl's lavatory.

They also unlocked the gym offices and wrote "(name) is a nigger" on the walls. In addition, a power lawn-mower and sharpening stone were stolen from the outdoor tool shed, presumably by the same vandals.

Mr. McDonald says the school's keys were stolen June 8. After he missed them, he watched closely to see whether an attempt would be made to use them.

"I think I know who took them," he says. "It was high-school-age students, not anybody from John Witherspoon. I told the police who I suspected."

Classes had ended Friday, but Mr. McDonald watched all day Saturday and until about 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

"I left about 2 Sunday, and I found this mess when I came back Monday morning at 6:30, so they must have done it Sunday afternoon and evening. I've seen these kids around the building, and one of the night men has seen them, too, but not recently."

Fingerprints were on the fire extinguisher, Mr. McDonald says, but he reports that police said the prints wouldn't help.

9 TV SETS STOLEN

From Sears in Center. Sears' Best was good enough for enthusiastic thieves who twice during the weekend broke a 5x12-foot display window at Sears in the Princeton Shopping Center and carted off nine television sets with a total value of $1,929.97. Cost to replace the two windows was an additional $400.

Between 1:45 and 7:35 Saturday morning, someone threw a tire iron through the window and removed three black and white sets and two portable color sets with a combined value of $1,144. (Just three Sundays ago on May 28, a tire iron was used to smash the same window and two sets valued at $170 and $130 were taken between 12:30 and 6:30 a.m.)

After reporting the theft to Township police and after Ptl. Harry Morton conducted his investigation, the manager had the window replaced. It lasted less than 24 hours.

Between midnight and 9 a.m. Sunday, the window was broken again — police believe this time by a shopping cart which was found some four feet away — and two color and two black and white sets valued at $785.97 were taken. The sets, all portables, were removed from a shelf near the break in the window, police said. Several other sets were left behind. Ptl. James Vandermark investigated the second theft, assisted by Detective Samuel Bianco.

Bricks Taken. In another Township theft, Julian Bigelow, 3 Hornor Lane, reported Monday the theft of one and a half tons of brick from a construction site at 576 Mercer Road, where he is building a home. He placed a value of about $500 on the bricks, which he had purchased for $300 a few years ago.

Police estimated the thief needed at least an hour to car-

Graduation Cancelled: Diplomas are Nice and Dry

The 334 graduates of the Princeton Middle School were washed out of their 6:30 p.m. graduation exercises Friday evening. Anybody who didn't get a diploma when Principal Thornton Grove distributed them at the end of the dance Friday, may pick it up at Valley Road school. Diplomas will also be mailed during the summer.

In a sequence of events which sounded rather like Noah preparing for the flood, Mr. Grove and his staff began ahead of time, to sniff the wind. They signed up the Princeton High auditorium—just in case.

All 334 grads could be accommodated on stage, Mr. Grove was informed, and there were 600 seats in the audience. Friday drew on, greyer and damper. Mr. Grove moved. He assigned custodians to comb the schools for chairs, and take them down to PHS for the eighth-graders to sit on.

stage, a situation which would have left two-thirds of the class cooling its heels somewhere else. Besides, broken auditorium seats had already been removed, leaving only 400 for visitors.

John Witherspoon auditorium? Too small. The Princeton Playhouse? Exorbitantly expensive.

Listening to weather reports predicting 50% chance of rain, and brightening at the mention of thundershowers (they come and go fast), Mr. Grove had chairs set up in the Valley Road field late Friday afternoon — but for graduates only.

Then the rain began. By 5 p.m., the principal knew he had to give in. Assisted by two staff members, he began telephoning every parent, announcing that graduation was being cancelled.

It cleared, of course, around six. But electricians refused to run cord across the wet field, and any public-address system would have to be battery operated. This wiped out any plans for music. Also, there were no chairs for visitors.

But only 100 would fit the

The dance, however, went ahead in fine style and refreshments were served outdoors, until late in the evening.

"We considered re-scheduling graduation," Mr. Grove says, "and about 60-70% of the kids said OK, but of those, only a few felt strongly about it. And the other 30-40% said—forget it."

Toward the end of the dance, Mr. Grove handed out graduation certificates to those present. The rest are in the Valley Road office.

"I had only one parent who protested — and that was an anonymous call," the principal says.

ry the bricks from the southwest side of the house down an outside stairs to his car. Mr. Bigelow told Ptl. Walter Emann that the bricks have a green mold on them from sitting outside so long.

Craig H. Smith, 627 Princeton - Kingston Road, reported the theft from a driveway post of an antique railroad lantern he had converted to a yard lamp in front of his home. He valued the black lantern with red and green lenses at $100.

Police report that wires to the lamp were cut and it was removed from a hook on the post. Mr. Smith noticed the lamp was missing when he returned home on Saturday; it had last been seen by a neighbor at 5 p.m. on Friday. Ptl. John Hammond investigated.

$2800 Office Loss. The Borough had its share of thefts, too — the most costly of which took place in the office of Pyne Press, 92 Nassau Street.

Sgt. Theodore Lewis, after investigating a 2 p.m. call on Saturday, reported that two electric typewriters, an adding machine and a calculator had been removed from the second floor office. Total value of the machines: $2800.

Police report that entry was gained by slipping a lock on the office door.

The same procedure — slipping a door lock — was used to enter a gallery and office last week at 3 Spring Street.

Taken from the Princeton Art Association were some foreign coins from a cash box that had been pried open. Their value is unknown. A desk in the office of the Middlesex - Somerset - Mercer Regional Study Council yielded $25. Ptl. Arthur Jackson investigated both entries.

Between Thursday evening and Friday morning a thief cut metal bars from a window at Kopp's Cycle Shop, 14 John Street, broke a pane of glass to get inside and removed $5. "Someone worked awfully hard for $5," observed Lt. Carnevale.

The theft was reported by Richard Swan, manager.

Eugene A. Scott reported the theft last week of two stereo speakers from the living room of his home at 226 John Street.

Police said that there were no signs of forced entry. The speakers were valued at $00.

Safe Job Fails. Attempts to force open a safe in a second floor office at the Princeton Public Library last week were unsuccessful, according to Lt. Carnevale.

Entry to the library, he said, was through a window that had been broken on the southeast side of the building. No money or anything else was taken.

The thief apparently exited through a side door. Custodian Eugene Mayberry notified police of the attempt at 6:53 Thursday morning.

But what a way
To cross the street!

June was already far above total normal rainfall for the month when along came Cousin Agnes, still loaded with a few buckets of water. Princeton, however, had nothing like its experience last summer with Doria and her ten inches of rain in less than 24 hours.

After four straight days of precipitation, skies are expected to clear, and hopes are that summer's first weekend will be a dry one. The Man said he'd do his best to even things up with four straight days of sunshine.

BOROUGH MAN CHARGED

With New Brunswick Theft. Borough police arrested a Park Place resident Thursday afternoon and charged him with possession of stereo equipment and a camera that had allegedly been stolen earlier that day from a home in New Brunswick.

Presently free on $500 bail is Ron Johnson, 20, 44 Park Place. He was scheduled to appear in Borough court this Wednesday afternoon.

Acting on information supplied by the victim, Ptl. Ronald Holliday entered Johnson's apartment, where they report finding the articles, and arrested Johnson. Police identified the theft victim as Howard Redding of New Brunswick.

RUNS FOR BUS

Hit By Car Instead. A 22-year-old Rutgers student, dashing across Nassau Street in the rain Sunday morning to catch a bus, was struck by a car about 30 feet from Witherspoon Street.

Kerry Lu of New Brunswick was hit on the left thigh and hip. She was taken to Princeton Medical Center by the investigating officer, Ptl. James Agins. Xrays proved negative and Miss Lu was treated and released. There were no charges against the driver, Daniel L. Migliore, 36, 106 Stockton Street.

According to police, Miss Lu had been dropped off near the intersecton by her uncle. She opened her umbrella, walked around the front of the car and darted across Nassau Street to catch a bus parked on the opposite side. Too late, she saw a car coming, tried to stop and jump outof the

IT'S BACK TO SCHOOL

For 60 Teachers Here. Sixty teachers from public and private schools throughout New Jersey are meeting all this week, six hours a day at John Witherspoon School, in a series of workshops on open classroom methods.

The workshops are under the direction of Ellen Kuris, second - grade teacher at the school.

The "open classroom," sometimes called the British Infant School approach, multi-age classroom, or integrated day, emphasizes active, rather than passive, learning and individual attention to each child.

Teachers attending this week's John Witherspoon sessions come from classrooms ranging from the youngest elementary all the way through high school, although most teach in elementary schools. In this area, schools represented are Princeton Day School, Stuart Country Day; West Windsor - Plainsboro, Pennington, Trenton, Robbinsville and Kendall Park, as well as schools in the Princeton public system.

Emphasis on Action. "Our emphasis is on DOING," Mrs. Kuris explains. "It's easy for teachers to sit and talk, but it's very hard to DO! We have a minimum of talk-sessions. However, we do require teachers to bring their own lunch and stay here in the school, talking with each other during lunch-hour about their experiences."

THE TEACHER AS PUPIL: If you're eight years old, you can get down on the floor quicker than if you're — well, not eight. But getting down there where the kids sit is part of this week's workshop on "open classrooms" at John Witherspoon School. Here, in a session on rhythm and music, JW's Principal Eugene Biringer (far right), joins other workshop participants. Teachers are attending from public and private schools throughout central New Jersey.

On the "doing" side, teachers spent Monday in carpentry, handling unfamiliar power tools, and going outdoors to collect material for a compost pile, under guidance of an organic gardening expert.

Tuesday, they put stiff fingers and thumbs to simple print-making in the art room. "I was always terrible in art when I was in school — this is really unfamiliar to me," one teacher said. Tuesday was also music day, devoted to exploring drums, xylophones, guitars.

Wednesday's schedule featured math and reading. One participant is Murray Cohen, principal of Johnson Park School, who is a math. teaching specialist. He explained for teachers the use of Cuisenaire rods as math teaching tools. The reading specialist at John Witherspoon led the workshop in reading.

Science and Theatre. Thursday's agenda lists science and theatre games. Under the direction of James Messersmith, science co - ordinator for Princeton's elementary and middle schools, workshop teachers performed science experiments — constructing balancing scales, doing experiments in chemistry and so on.

"Science shouldn't be a passive experience, watching a film on electricity," Mrs. Kuris explains, "but an active one in which a child discovers how to make a light bulb light, or a bell ring."

On Friday, the last day, Mrs. Kuris will explain how an open classroom should be planned. Teachers will draw up floor plans, and submit them for criticism.

"An open classroom means much more planning and work for the teacher because he must plan for 20 children doing 20 different things in one day," she points out "the teacher must keep records of what each child is learning daily in each area, provide individual instruction and also change, plan, and control the environments in the classroom to promote the specific 'learnings' developed by the teacher."

Princeton public school teachers in the session are paying the $20 fee from their own pockets, Mrs. Kuris says. The project, with its 60 participants, is at the break-even point.

PHS STUDENT CHARGED

In Girl Molestation. A 14-year-old Princeton High School student has been charged by Borough police with sexually molesting a 15-year-old student Thursday afternoon, the last day of school, in the rear of the high school.

Detective Anthony Ranfone responded to a 2:31 call that a girl was being molested and took the youth into custody. He was taken to the Mercer County Youth House and later released after processing. The incident is being investigated by Borough juvenile officers Thomas Procaccino and Douglas Watson.

STUDENT IS SUSPECT

In Car Vandalism. Thomas Adams of Lawrence Township, a teacher at Valley Road School, told police last week that he suspects a student was responsible for vandalism to his car parked in the school lot.

A chrome strip was torn off the side of his car and the air let out of a front tire. Mr. Adams told Sgt. Robert Heacock that one of the students had threatened to do something to him in the last week of school. The Friday afternoon incident was reported to Sgt. Anthony Pinelli, the Township's juvenile officer.

YOUTH HERE CHARGED

In Campus Theft. James J. MacAfee, 18, Ridgeview Circle, and a 17-year-old Kingston juvenile have been charged with possession of stolen property allegedly taken from Balir Hall on the University campus.

They were aprehended early Tuesday morning in Blair Hall by Proctor Russell Shangle with a stereo tuner and an amplifier in their possession and turned over to Sgt. John Bellow and Ptl. Gerald Patterson of the Borough police. They are scheduled to appear in Borough court July 5 following their release.

Charged with trespassing, Frederick Skipworth, 20, Hollow Road, Skillman, has been charged with trespassing after he was discovered by proctors

A HILL TOWN OF NORTHERN ITALY, reproduced in a cardboard and balsa model by William F. Short Sr. (left) of Bayberry Road, is on exhibit at the American Express office at 10 Nassau Street. Daniel H. Kahn, manager, is at right. The model took Mr. Short about four months to make, working about an hour or so a day. It is based on his own study of the medieval towns of the lower Alps. Mr. Short's first efforts at modelmaking resulted in a medieval castle for his grandsons. At the request of one, he later produced a seven foot model of Dodge City. The town, naturally, has made him an honorary sheriff.

Issued a complaint summons, Skipworth is also scheduled to be heard in court July 5.

SHEEHAN LAND FOR SALE

In Borough, Township. The unfinished office building at 363 Nassau Street belonging to Timothy J. Sheehan will be offered for sale next month.

At the same time, Mr. Sheehans' 94 acres of Township land, which he has hoped to develop cluster-style, will also be up for sale.

Mr. Sheehan filed for bankruptcy in January, 1971. Proceeds from the two sales would be used to pay his creditors.

The office building, between Harrison and Markham Roads, will be up for bids in bankruptcy court at 10 a.m. July 5. If the court doesn't approve the bids, the property will be offered at public auction July 24 at 10 a.m. at 363 Nassau.

The same schedule applies to the Township acreage, which is listed at being at 398 Cherry Hill Road.

Mr. Sheehan is currently in litigation with the Borough of Princeton and several municipal officials, past and present. His suit, filed September 28 of last year, named both elected and appointed Borough officials, charging them with holding up construction of the office building and harassing him.

For a time, Mr. Sheehan was denied a building permit under the 1968 zoning ordinance; however, a unanimous decision of the appeals court gave the permit back and Mr. Sheehan began construction two years ago. The property is valued at about $100,000.

. . . AND NOBODY CAME

To Police Committee. After the heat-lightning of Borough Council's public hearing on the Police Committee ordinance on June 13, nobody showed up at the Committee's regular monthly meeting, held on Thursday, two days after the Council confrontation.

Commissioner Arthur P. Morgan and other committee members chatted for 15 minutes with the press, and then went home.

No meetings will be held in July and August unless something come up, Mr. Morgan said. The Commission's legality was questioned last week by the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association and the matter is still in limbo.

OFFICERS ELECTED

By English-Speaking Union. J. Paul Barringer has been named president of the Princeton Branch of the English-Speaking Union for the coming year.

Serving with him will be William P. Maddox and Walton W. Butterworth, vice-presidents; Samuel Frothingham, treasurer; Col. Robert T. Mellinger, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Alfred O. Hoyt, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard W. Baker, corresponding secretary. Serving as directors for the next three yeas will be Mrs. W. Park Armstrong and Rear Admiral Mitchell D. Matthews, USN, Ret.

Earlier this month, 47 students and two counselors from the Princeton area left for Scotland to visit families there for a three-week period. The plane for the trip was chartered by the Princeton Branch.

FOUR MEETINGS SET

By La Leche League. This Monday, La Leche League of Princeton will begin a new series of four monthly meetings on "The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding."

The first meeting, which will cover "Advantages of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby," will be held at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Barry Weisman, 270 Glenn Avenue, Lawrence Township.

While all mothers (and babies) are invited to attend meetings, La Leche League especially encourages all expectant mothers who are interested in breastfeeding to attend the current series. Future meetings will cover these areas: "The Art of Breastfeeding and Avoiding Difficulties", "Baby Arrives; The Family and the Breastfed Baby", and "Nutrition and Weaning." Meetings are held once a month.

For information about the meeting, call Mrs. Barry Weisman at 883-4816. For counseling, call Nance Hahn at 924-6513.

CONVERSIONS ON AGENDA

For Zoning Board. Two of four applications that will be heard Thursday night by the Borough Zoning Board in Borough Hall involve conversions of single family dwellings to multiple use.

Byron Campbell, owner of property at 15 Jefferson Road, wants to convert a single family dwelling there to two-family use. Normally, this requires conditional use authorization but because Mr. Campbell also wants to add a one-story addition to the rear he needs a recommendation from the board for a use variance to Mayor and Council.

With the addition, the building exceeds coverage requirements and becomes non-complying. The home is located in an R3 zone.

Mr. Campbell needs and can provide three off-street parking spaces. For two spaces in the rear yard, he plans access from Moore Street by way of a driveway on an adjacent property.

Faith Lopez of Marsh & Co., owners of a single family dwelling at 46 Wiggins Street, will seek conditional use authorization to convert the building into three apartments.

They need minor front and side yard variances. There will be no new construction. The property is located in an R4 zone which permits multiple family dwellings.

Charles Tulumlao of Nassau Shoe Repair, at the rear of 180 Nassau Street, will ask for board approval of an enclosed four-by-five foot foyer he had built around his front door without first obtaining a permit.

Although the enclosure is small, it increases the non-compliance concerning coverage, and is a violation.

Baldwin Maull, 25 Alexander Street, wants to remove a small shed from the rear of his garage and replace it with an addition.

As designed, the addition is too close to the lot line and a shade too high. The violations are minute — .4 of a foot too high and 13 square feet more than the allowable rear yard coverage. So minute, in fact that the applicant may later his specifications to conform to the existing requirements, as suggested by the engineering department, and withdraw his application.

FIRM FILES SUIT

Over Hopewell Apartments. A civil suit has been filed against Hopewell Borough by a Princeton construction firm that has been prohibited from building a garden apartment complex on a 38-acre Borough tract.

Hollander Properties Inc., 360 Nassau Street, has filed a complaint on New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, against Mayor Joseph Hill and the five borough councilmen.

On May 1, after the plans for the apartments had been made public, the borough council adopted an amending ordinance that deleted garden apartments as "special exception uses" permitted in three residential zones in the borough.

The firm contends the action of mayor and council was "capricious, unreasonable and unlawful" and requests the court to void the ordinance. Hollander asserts that the law was passed specifically to exclude garden apartments in the borough and is contradictory to the municipality's two-year old master plan.

According to Hollander the plan specifically acknowledges a social need for the existence of garden apartments... and designates the proposed property as one of three areas which were particularly suited for the erection of garden apartments."

As a result of the suit, Joseph Castoro, secretary of Hollander, is suing himself as a borough councilman. However, he has not participated in any

"SLEUTH," "GODSPELL" To McCarter This Fall. McCarter Theatre's "Playgoers' Series" for next season will star the national touring companies of "Sleuth" and "Godspell."

Two separate subscription series of six events each, will offer customers a cross-section of performances by various touring companies from off-Broadway and on-Broadway shows.

The playgoers' Series will open in late September with "Sleuth," the Broadway thriller that won the 1971 Tony Award as Best Play of the year.

In the touring company will be George Rose and David Haviland in the two leading parts originated by Anthony Quayle and Keith Baxter.

"Godspell," the musical by Steven Schwartz based on St. Matthew, will come to McCarter in October. "Godspell!" is in its second year as a hit.

It will be followed by "The Rivalry," a dramatization by Norman Corwin of the Lincoln-Douglas debates, starring Fred Gwynne and Martin Gable as Lincoln and Douglas.

"The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man - in - the - Moon Marigolds," will be given twice in January at McCarter. Paul Zindel's drama of family tensions among three generations of women, received the Pulitzer Prize in 1971.

For the spring half of the season, McCarter has scheduled not only a return of Marcel Marceau, but Paul Sills' "Story Theatre," an evening of folk-rock fables based on the Brothers Grimm and Aesop; the return of the Julliard Acting Company of fourth-year students at Julliard and, in May, "Hedda Gabler" and "A Doll's House," with star to be announced.

COME TO "PROOLAND" Children's Show. The premiere of "Adventures in Prooland," Summer Intime's children's play, has already been sold out. But tickets remain for the other five performances: Saturdays, July 22, 29 and August 5 and Wednesdays, July 26 and August 2. Saturday shows are at 2:30 and Wednesday shows at 11 a.m.

All performances are in air-conditioned Murray Theatre on the University campus. Group rates are available for all shows. Interested groups or individuals may make reservations at 452-8181.

"Adventures in Prooland" is a new play by Ellen Donegan, written especially for Summer Intime's fifth anniversary season. There is a hair-raising chase scene, a lovely young character named Foofoo, a singing and dancing Ginger Bear and two Proobies, who walk, talk and think exactly alike. Everything comes out fine in the end.

. . . AND FOR ADULTS

"Billy Liar." Anne Sheldon has replaced Shirley Kauffman in the role of the mother in Summer Intime's opening production, "Billy Liar," scheduled for Thursday, June 29, at 8:30.

THEATRE!

Kids Can Learn All About It. Anybody going into seventh grade, or above, is invited to sign up free of charge, for the summer theatre workshops sponsored by Street Theatre.

"Stagecraft," the first workshop, will begin next Monday; "Theatre Games" on Tuesday; "Stage Movement" on Wednesday and "Scene Study-Direction" on Thursday.

All workshops will run from 9:30 a.m. to noon, one day a week for six weeks. They will be held at Christ Congregation Church, Walnut at Houghton in Princeton.

Students must register, and may do so by calling the church, 921-6253, or Amie Brockway at 452-9145.

Donations, to assist in the support of these workshops, may be made to Street Theatre and sent to Christ Congregation Church.

THEATRE FOR ALL

From Rider. A mix of summer entertainment for children as well as adults, will be offered during the next weeks by the new Studio Theatre Players, formed around a nucleus of eight Rider College students.

Musicals, poetry, rock n' roll, children's theatre, ensemble theatre, one-act plays and special entertainment for Trenton center-city children, are on the program.

A special production called "Loose Ends" will be given 12 performances during the summer, eight of them for Rider freshmen who will be on campus for orientation sessions.

Several special shows for children will be staged by the Studio Players and have already been booked for the Governor's Youth Program at Sea Girt and Pomona.

In addition, three shows will be given for housing project children in Trenton under the sponsorship of the YMCA, and two productions will be part of Trenton's Follow Through program.

Lawrenceville children may attend a special show on August 1, with a $1 admission charge.

Most performances will be in Rider's new Studio Theatre in the Fine Arts Building. The Rider campus is in Lawrence Township on Route 206.

PLAYERS PLAN MEETING

Current Season To End. The Community Players final meeting of the season will be held Sunday, at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road at Route 206.

in charge of lighting and sound for all Players productions this season.

He will introduce Allan Pierce, who will discuss the role of improvisation in an actor's training and will lead volunteers in a series of demonstrations. Mr. Pierce recently collaborated on a text on improvisational theatre techniques in teaching literature and is chairman of the English Department at Rutgers Prep, where he also directs the theatre program. He appeared as the Ragpicker in "The Madwoman of Chaillot" and in the past has directed several productions for the Players, including "Tea Party," "The Good Woman of Setzuan" and 'The Lover."

All Players' meetings are open to the public.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

By New Dramatic Group. The Circle Jesters of Twin Rivers have announced that their first production will be "Any Wednesday." Auditions for the show, which will be directed by Barbara Rothstein, will be held Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. in the Twin Rivers Administration Building, Abbington Drive, East Windsor.

"Any Wednesday" has a cast of four—two men and two women ranging in age from 30 to late 40's or early 50's. Performances will be held at the Ethel McKnight School in East Windsor on October 19 and 20. Rehearsals will begin in early September, giving those involved with the production the summer months in which to familiarize themselves with the show.

The Jesters were recently formed with the intent of bringing theatre-in-the-round to the area, and are open to all interested in working in any phase of theatrical production. Monthly meetings are held on the third Tuesday. Karen Zeitzer, program chairman, is planning a series of one-act plays and play readings for each meeting, so that those with little performing experience can "learn by doing."

Co-directors of the Circle Jesters are Sasha Masse and Barbara Rothstein, both of whom have been active in summer stock and in little theatre organizations. Deena Silverman is secretary-treasurer; Jerry Masse, lighting director; Diane Spilenni, art director; Karen Zeitzer, costume designer, Mark Silverman, set designer.

The Circle Jesters are offering ticket discounts to groups of 25 or more. For further information on auditions or group sales, call 443-1726 or 443-1557.

GIFTS FOR A HOSTESS

From The Cummins Shop. Have you heard of chicken plates? The Cummins Shop at 98 Nassau Street has them. The plates are buffet size, white china with painted lines that simulate chicken wire. And here and there, an egg or two. ($5) Nearby are the mugs that are great for soup or chowder.

The relish dishes are fascinating. Some have mushrooms for a center handle, others a frog or a snail. Made of Italian creamware.

For birdlovers, the shop has found large ashtrays with a different species of bird painted on each. And the woman who cultivates house plants will be intrigued with the matching flower pot and watering can of china, with a free-flow design of strawflowers on each.

Vast Selection. Cummins' placemats have a nice flair to them, and all that we saw are a generous size. There are oval plastics with summer flowers as the theme ($1.25) and matching napkins. Fine straw mats, too, in light green, or deep blue, or beige.

The shop has a vast selection of napkins, most are no-iron types. They come in prints and in solid colors of almost any shade you can imagine.

Orrefors has introduced an elegant candleholder for porch and patio dining. The candle stands in a metal base and is protected from vagrant breezes by a wide oval of clear glass. Three sizes, priced from $14, 15 to $20.

The salad-dessert plates are one of the most sought-after items at the shop. Designs are so handsome and so varied that you will enjoy browsing. Patterns range from the traditional spray of flowers to very contemporary splashes of colors.

Recycled Idea. Fish plates are an old idea making a comeback. The Ginori pattern at Cummins features a central design, beautifully executed, of the various fish that grace our tables.

The plates are white porcelain, with a low, sharply-raised rim. Sets of six, in a large dinner plate size.

For Round Tables . . .

The Cummins Shop comes to the rescue of those who have round dining and patio tables: placemats in wedge shapes, cut short at the top.

In colorful, summery prints on textured plastic. ($1.50)

We noticed plastic glasses — some with daisies for added interest, others in the strong colors of stained glass windows. Most of the glasses are designed to stack neatly, and are dishwasher proof.

Cummins has some extremely attractive plastic bowls and servers from Denmark. A few have a slight lip at the rim. The color choice is very summery: light green, pure red, yellow or violet.

COUNTRY & CASUAL

At The Piccadilly. Q-skirts are in full bloom at the Piccadilly Boutique, 200 Nassau St. Really a culotte with an attached skirt front, the Q's are a very fetching change from shorts.

Piccadilly's collection includes a Q-skirt in blue denim with an edge of red rick rack over the white hem and side front. Another is shamrock green with pure white accents. There's a nice choice of colors, $16. up.

The wrap skirts are almost all reversible, with the most outstanding a riotous garden print backed on the reverse side by a bright green. Add a solid-color top of almost any shade for the print side, and a floral or striped top for the reverse.

The reversible wraps include ticking stripes and complementary solid colors. The length is about to the knee top of the average woman. Among the regular skirts, a hand-screened polyester-and-cotton with a blue-and lilac print on a pearly gray background. Another is a bright red seersucker with patch pockets and a stitched navy belt. The variety is enough to suit all personalities. (From $12)

Classic Lines. Tops at the Piccadilly are the classic tailored, placket-front types with a great choice of colors. The most intriguing has a convertible collar. Wear the shirt zipped up the back for a turtle neck, or turn it around and zip it part way up the front for the open-throat shirt look. ($10)

And of course, the Skyr shirts of silky nylon knit that wears and wears. Hot pink, geranium, buttercup yellow, green, white or navy. ($12) There's also a boucle rib knit to consider that fits the body more. Tailored with placket front and short sleeves.

The polyester-and-cotton shirts, with a big choice of colors in the tailored look, are especially cool for summer. ($6.50)

Looking for cool pants for summer, Piccadilly showed us seersucker in red-and-white stripes, with front patch pockets. A corded polyester weave comes in solid colors, in a side-zip design. Neither of these are hip-huggers.

Pure white pants, of course, and fly-fronts in Stuart plaid and in vertical stripes of beautiful colors, or, among others, deep pink with small white dots.

Attractive Prints. The long skirts at Piccadilly include wraps in beautiful prints ($26). There are prints and batik-looks with the fullness gathered at the waist or slightly A-lined.

For travel, Banlon dresses that include the interesting key hole neckline paired with an Empire waist. This, in a scenic print that hints of old Persia, with navy bands at the waist and neck.

Another Banlon, so light and flexible that you could stick it in your pocketbook, is a geometric print of navy diamonds with green dot centers against a white background. The collarless neck opening is held by a button covered with the same fabric. Long sleeves.

And among the others, a three-piece design — pleated skirt, Mao-collared top and brief jacket, in green-and-white houndstooth check.

For those who love seersucker, Piccadilly has some nice offerings, including a dress of wonderous stripes that range through the various blues and lavenders to white. The stripes are used vertically up top and on the bias in the skirt. A narrow navy belt finishes it off.

The dress collection has a number of very pretty linens and knits. Among them a sleeveless green knit outlined in white at the neck, and belted at the waist with a white belt. A very cool-looking dress.

News Of The Theatres

the Romanovs, the shock is all the more powerful.

It is difficult for an actor to portray a gentle or weak person and have him engage the viewer's interest for three hours, but Michael Jayston's quiet interpretation of Nicholas builds slowly and firmly. Janet Suzman as his more forceful Empress, is equally successful.

Based upon Robert K. Massie's biography, the film opens with the birth of the couple's son Alexis, and during the first half details their tragic discovery that he has hemophilia and the Empress' dependence on the peasant mystic, Rasputin. Tom Baker as the monk, gives the one flamboyant performance. The Romanovs glide around their palace like enchanted lovers, and the film treats them sympathetically, but at the same time shows where they were in the wrong.

Franklin J. Shaffner, who favored characterization over battle scenes in "Patton," has minimized the blood and gore in the streets in this film as well.

PLAYHOUSE

Klute is a tense thriller about a small town cop (Sonald Sutherland) who searches the big city for his missing friend, vanished six months ago from his job with a large company.

His lead tis to an expensive call girl (Jane Fonda). She gives a fine performance as a girl trying to break out of her old profession into modeling or acting or something else. Sutherland is tight-lipped and low key throughout the film. Director Alan Pakula has made a well-crafted film.

Summer of '42 All the little episodes of the discovery of sex by adolescent boys are captured in this film — some are funny, others poignant. Th setting is a beach town of the New England coast in the early days of World War I.

The acting is close to perfection, especially by the three boys, Jerry Houser, Gary Grimes and Oliver Conant. One of the girls is Christopher Norris, another is Katherine Allentuck, and the "older" married woman of 20 or so, is played by Jennifer O'Neill, who has befriended Grimes.

There is a nude bedroom scene, which director Robert Mulligan handles with delicacy. Robert Surtees' color photography is superb, and the musical score by Michael Legrand is excellent.

GARDEN

The Last Picture Show (now playing) is one of the finest American films of recent years. The director is film historian Peter Bogdanovich, the first of the youthful film nuts to make it big.

The time is the early Fifties and the story unrolls against the background of a small, windswept town in Texas. For the young, it's a matter of growing up and escaping, usually to Wichita Falls. It is either that or grow old in a town that's dying right in front of you.

Two youths, Sonny and Duane (played by Timothy Bottoms and Jeff Bridges) want to leave for good. Sonny inherits the town's pool hall and works the oil rig out in the flatlands. Duane, jilted by the town's prettiest girl, escapes via a hitch in the army. The music of the Fifties pours out of jukeboxes, car radios and phonographs.

The cast gives some remarkable performances, including Cloris Leachman as the lonely housewife, Ellen Burstyn who takes the infidelities route, and Ben Johnson, as Sam the Lion, the aging Texan who runs the pool hall, cafe and movie house, who doesn't like any of the changes he sees. The last show in his aging theatre is Howard Hawks' "Red River," about the West at its most glorious.

The film suggests the passing of a whole way of life. Directed with precision and compassion, it also pays tribute to Bogdanovich's director-heroes: the Damon-Pythias relationship between the two youths is very much in the Howard Hawks genre; the pictorial sense is taken from John Ford, with a deep bow to Orson Welles, and the closing credits are very Welles. The film is in black and white, historically appropriate for pre-Cinemascope times.

Picasso Plates

An unusual possibility for gift seekers during the wedding season are the Picasso Plates currently being featured at Gallery 100.

Called the Plates of Vallauris, they were made by Picasso in 1949 for a Peace Movement in Paris. Made and fired in Vallauris, Picasso's home in the south of France, they are on display in the museum there. The plates are white and have striking sketches in the free Picasso style.

Tax Reform Questioned.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

If one can believe all of the promises and forecasts made by the advocates of tax reform in New Jersey, local and state governments can spend more in the years to come and almost every one will pay less in taxes than he is now paying. This Day of Jubilee will begin when the legislature enacts a "tax reform" package, the major elements of which are 1) a graduated personal income tax, and 2) a statewide tax of $1 per $100 of assessed value of real property.

These revenues will be used to support elementary and high schools, with an estimated overall reduction of local property tax of 40 percent. A leaflet distributed in Princeton last week, and no doubt elsewhere in the State, asserts that the local property tax will not only go down, "but will stay down".

The reform program relied on to accomplish these results was proposed by a tax study group that had been at work for some two years. It is unfortunate that the research did not go more deeply into the record of state property taxation.

Back in the 19th century, such a levy was in common use. Competitive undervaluation by local assessors became universal and so difficult to prevent or control that in the early years of the present century, this tax method was generally abandoned. There is no evidence to show that it can be successfully revived in New Jersey where, a century ago, the prevailing attitude was: — "We want an assessor who is sharp enough to take care of his constituents".

The leaflet in question states that the New Jersey tax system "places the load of local, county and state government on the individual property owner and apartment renter." Nonsense! The state collects large revenues from business, a sales tax, liquor and tobacco taxes, motor vehicle registrations, drivers' licenses, gasoline tax, and a lucrative state lottery, plus other minor levies and charges.

It is equally nonsensical to promise renters of houses or apartments that the reduction in local property tax will be passed along in lower rent. The incidence of a tax on real property is not that simple. It will vary from one community to another and is certainly not to be disposed of by a statewide ukase.

On Friday, June 16, The New York Times had a short story to the effect that the property tax rate in New York City is due to rise this year by 9 percent. Our neighbor across the Hudson has a complete arsenal of the most up-to-date taxes. Yet all of these taxes do not prevent another hike in the property tax.

There is only one sure-fire way to get taxes down and that is by reducing public spending. Tinkering with the tax system before taking this essential first step is self-defeating. New Jersey ranks eighth in per capita income. Perhaps the tax system has not been such a serious handicap after all.

Congratulations, Flight II
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Something wonderful happened at the Hospital Fete Teen Tent. It was Flight II.

Boys and girls and chosen bands provided muscle and music to a windy day. The success was due in no small way to months of program planning, travelling to rummage sales, coordinating workers, taking exams, spraining ankles and coming up smiling, June 10, efficiently handling the whole day's job.

Special praise for the end of the day Heroes—what a clean-up job!

What about the Girls?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Your summary of the University's Athletic year in the June 15 issue was fine except in one now-important respect: No mention at all of the official women's teams, which did exceedingly well as your archives will show: tennis, crew, swimming, field hockey, etc.

May I suggest you remedy this omission soon in a subsequent issue.

JOHN R. BENNET, P'30
304 Emmons Drive

Editor's Note: William Stryker, the University's Director of Sports Information, points out that the basis for the statistics (for which he was the source) was one of comparison to previous athletic achievements, and in the world of women's athletics at Princeton, no previous records exist. Mr. Stryker also reports that with the exception of swimming and tennis, women's sports at Princeton are currently staged on a somewhat informal basis which negates an opportunity for official record-keeping.

Thanks from the Fete.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

On behalf of the Princeton Hospital Fete committee, I wnat to thank you for all the excellent publicity you gave this benefit. You were most generous with your space and we do appreciate it.

More Support for Music.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

This is a letter motivated by Megan Valetine's letter concerning the Music Program in the Princeton Regional School System. (TOWN TOPICS, May 25).

In her letter she concisely showed that music is not an obscure subject with the student population (witness the participation level), but that the orchestra and choir were things that worked, were enjoyable, and important. It is undeniably true that music has been ignored to a vast extent, and the people who enjoy it suffer.

Musicians are just like other people, you know. They eat and drink and even watch T.V. The same goes for the music program, it is a subject that demands more concentration and discipline than any other subject. Therefore it should get just as much attention as the other subjects.

But as said before, the administration has been oblivious (apparently) to these facts. There is a great amount of musical talent in the school system. Shouldn't it be cultivated and developed when music plays such a big part in contemporary society? In a day when the finding of jobs isn't easy, this musical training is important to the person who plans to make music his or her life.

As Megan said, interested people jumped at every chance to increase their musical knowledge. They worked hard to learn, accepted the responsibilities of learning (making up missed classes for example), and accepted and functioned under the strict discipline that is necessary.

These people realized music wasn't some trivial subject that you put number 4 on your cycle choice. A great many even considered it as important or more important than their other classes. And the people that weren't involved in the musical programs this year, many of them realized these same things and as a result they are eager to join the choir, etc., etc.

And another thing, the fact that these music programs were able to give many kids the self-confidence they lacked enabled them the courage to be mpre confident in their other subjects.

It makes me laugh when the administration says they need all the money for the "new type of education." And then write off music as a no interest subject.

Megan and I speak for a great amount of people . . . so, you boys and girls out there who know what's happening, had better realize your potential as a group to change this situation. (And thereby do.)

And all the people and administration who are always screaming about education had better stop and ask themselves whether something like this can be ignored by a system that needs all the friends it can get.

Reform Proposed Tax Reform.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In my appearance before the New Jersey Assembly Taxation Committee, I indicated my overall support for the proposed tax reform legislation; however, there are two areas of significant concern to the citizens in the Princeton community that should be corrected.

The Tax Policy Committee investigated the effects of tax-exempt properties, and although significant recommendations were made pertaining to governmental properties, they failed to come to grips with the private exempt property problems.

This is of major concern in the Borough of Princeton since over 60 percent of our property values are tax-exempt. I of the discussion or voting on the Hollander proposal, which calls for 330 units on the tract off Greenwood Avenue.

No date has been set for the hearing.

GROUND IS BROKEN

For Chapin Addition. Ground has been broken for the new Chapin School 8,000 volume library and free-standing classroom-science facility designed to house the seventh and eighth grades.

Present for the ceremonies were Headmistress Margaret Ann Young, outgoing President of the Board of Trustees Dr. Vincent G. Dethier, incoming Board President Sanford Roeser, Trustees Mrs. Immanuel Kohn, Marvin Charen and Lee Neuwirth, and President of the Parents' Association Mrs. Edward Folmer.

Architect Robert Earl Sussna and Edward V. Sonday of Bergen Engineering Company, Freehold, New Jersey, the general contractor who will construct the new building, also attend the ceremonies.

According to Mr. Sonday of Bergen Engineering, the $250,000 additions will be completed in time for the fall term. National State Bank in Elizabeth, is providing construction financing. Mrs. Kohn, Trustee chairman of the School's Development Program said that ultimately a large part of the building program's cost will be met by money raised through a Capital Fund Drive.

Headmistress Young believes that parents waiting for openings at Chapin will be pleased to know that the realization of this building program has made a limited number of new places available in the seventh and eighth grades.

pointed out to the Committee that the consequent variable burdens of such exemptions on local taxpayers of the State should not continue, and that payments in lieu of taxes for private institutions should be made by the State similar to Assembly Bill 1269, an act which imposes property taxes upon public school property for municipal purposes.

It is only fair that the State assume the obligation for the tax-emempt creatures that they have created, and lift from the shoulders of the local property taxpayer, this awesome burden of supporting universal type institutions.

In another tax change, and one which affects the relationship between the two Princetons, the Administration is introducing legislation. Assembly Bill 1272 provides under Section 21 that "The taxes required for regional and consolidated districts shall be apportioned to their constituent districts on the apportionment valuations of the respective constituent districts."

This change — which is contrary to the recommendation of the Tax Policy Committee, which advocated pupil apportionment, and contrary to our local voted choice — will cost the Borough taxpayer over $250,000 more under the proposed law. School operating costs, as mandated by the people when voting to regionalize, were to be shared by the method of pupil ratios. This change has altered dramatically the financial relationship between the communities and sets the stage for greater provincialism in political and community planning and development.

I urged them to change the proposed legislation and revert back to pupil apportionment as originally recommended and approved by the Princeton voters under NJS 18A:13-23 or at least allow for a period of adjustment and financial transition as was granted to Bergen County-Westwood Regional, wherein the change in apportionment allowed the costs transition to be spread over a ten year period—90-10 the first year; 80-20 the second year, etc. under PL 1968 C40 SS3 (C18A:13-341).

Some consider we're just moving money from one pocket to another, but they forget we have two pairs of pants.

I strongly recommend that those who feel as I do about these matters contact our local legislative representatives: William E. Schluter, 205 So. Main Street, Pennington, N.J. 08534. Walter E. Foran, 129 Main Street, Flemington, N.J. 08822. Karl Weidel, 25 So. Warren Street, Trenton, N.J. 08608.

NEW HOURS PLANNED

For Post Office. Effective July 1, the window service hours of the Alexander Rd.-Postal Annex and the Palmer Square Station of the Princeton Post Office will begin new hours of service, 8 to 4:30 instead of 8:30 to 5.

As indicated by surveys made by the Postal Service in this area, service is more crucial and necessary at an earlier time of the day rather than in the evening. This change will conform with the desires of the New U. S. Postal Service to improve delivery of mail to customers.

SURVEY BEGUN HERE

On Drug Abuse Treatment. Two of the nation's leading drug abuse consultants have arrived in Princeton to begin a survey of the drug abuse treatment efforts proposed and currently in use in the Princeton area, particularly as they relate to the Princeton Medical Center.

Dr. John C. Ball and Dr. Frederick B. Glaser, co-directors of the Addiction Sciences Center of the Department of Psychiatry at Temple University, are scheduled to meet this Thursday morning at Princeton House, the Medical Center's mental health unit, with leaders of the area's drug abuse programs.

Attending the session will be representative members of the Intergovernmental Drug Committee, the Mercer County Drug Program and the Medical Center's Board of Trustees, Medical Staff and Administration.

John W. Kauffman, the Medical Center's executive vice - president, termed the meeting "one of great potential significance in helping us to successfully meet the complex drug abuse problem facing the Princeton area community today."

Drs. Ball and Glaser will survey and analyze both the drug abuse treatment needs and objectives here, as well as the Medical Center's role in helping to meet and to solve such needs. Mr. Kauffman added that funds for the Ball-Glaser survey have been made possible to the Medical Center through an anonymous donor.

HAVE A FOREIGN GUEST

For a Week-end. About 40 Japanese, men and women, who teach English in Japan at the middle school and high school level, will be in Princeton this summer for a four-week course in "Intensive English" at Princeton University.

The University's Office of Teacher Preparation, sponsors of the program, would like to place these teachers in Princeton area homes for two of the four weekends of the program so the teachers can learn about American ways.

The two weekends are August 5-6 and August 19-20. A family would be asked to have one, or at the most two, teachers as guests. The teachers speak English, of course, but they know little of the culture of the United States and the ways families live.

In the course of their stay here — July 28 to August 26 — the teachers will be out in the community, as well as in the classroom. They will talk with bankers, gas-station attendants, housewives, barbers.

During one week-end, they will travel to Washington, D. C., and they will make local trips to such places as Educational Testing Service, Trenton for its historic sites, Washington Crossing, and so on. They will also hear talks by municipal officials and see a variety of films.

Families who would like to be hosts are invited to call Henry Drewry, director of the Office of Teacher Preparation, 452-3336 during the daytime, or Donald Blankenbush, community co-ordinator for the progam at 737-1630, in the evenings.

BICENTENNIAL PLANS

Council to Meet Here. The Bicentennial Council of the Original Thirteen States will meet at Princeton University, June 29-30, at the invitation of the State Government. The Council was created last year to plan inter-state programs for the American Revolution Bicentennial of special interest to the original states.

Official state Bicentennial agencies send two delegates each to the Council. New Jersey will be represented by John T. Cunningham, chairman of the New Jersey Historical Commission, and Walter T. Peters, Jr., director of the Building and Construction Division in the Treasury Department.

Governor William T. Cahill will speak to the Council on Thursday morning, June 29, at 9:15 in Nassau Hall, headquarters of Continental Congress during the Revolution. He is expected to describe New Jersey's principal plans for the commemorative observance.

Council meetings will be held in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, on Thursday morning and afternoon and on Friday morning, June 30. At the last session, Mr. Peters will make a slide presentation on "Liberty Park," on the Jersey City waterfront, a proposal for a major national Bicentennial project. On May 15 he presented the project to the federal American Revolution Bicentennial Commission meeting in Boston.

At a dinner at "Prospect," Princeton University, on Thursday evening, the main speaker will be Prof. Richard P. McCormick of Rutgers. He is a member of the federal Commission and a member and former chairman of the State Historical Commission.

Wives of delegates will be guests of the Princeton Historical Society in a tour of Princeton, the university campus, Princeton Battlefield, and Washington's headquarters at Rockingham. The walking tour of the town will take them to Morven, the Governor's mansion.

Proposed Property Tax Reductions for Mercer County

People for Tax Reform, a statewide group of citizens formed to educate and inform the public about the need for tax reform in New Jersey, has studied the recommendations proposed by Governor Cahill as they would effect the tax levy and tax rate in every municipality in Mercer County.

The first column shows the 1971 tax rate, the second, what the rate would be under the Governor's proposals and the third, the dollar difference between the two. The next four columns show the corresponding change in the property tax paid by persons owning homes assessed at $10,000, $20,000 $30,000 or $40,000. The figures were compiled by the People for Tax Reform organization.

A Small Police Force Faces Some Big Problems

Drug violations declined from 41 to 31 in 1971, juveniles involved dropped from nine to six.

Although the department has grown from three men in 1968 to 16 today it is still understaffed: 20.9 men are needed to provide a minimum acceptable performance standard of all police duties. During the hours of 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. there is one man on patrol to cover 27 square miles. (Princeton Borough in contrast embraces 1.76 square miles.)

There are 70 miles of road to patrol, including a four-mile strip of busy U.S. 1. In 1971 patrol cars there traveled 210,650 miles — almost nine trips around the world. A chronic problem of patrol car breakdown, however has been alleviated with the replacement of three cars and the addition of a fourth.

Breaking and entering crimes more than doubled from 32 in 1970 to 67 in 1971 yet there is a widespread feeling in the community that "nothing ever happens" so why do we need such a large police force.

Physical facilities of the department are too small and its fringe benefits are not competitive with departments of surrounding areas. Only half of hospitalization is paid, for example, even if the hospitalization is the result of injury sustained in the line of duty.

These and hundreds more facts like them can be found in a detailed study of the West Windsor police department by Adele Budd. A limited number of copies of the report can be obtained from Mrs. Budd at 17 Birchwood Court, RDI, Trenton.

Purpose of Report. Her purpose in compiling the report, says Mrs. Budd, is to outline the objectives, problems, operating procedures and financial structure of the West Windsor Police with a view toward promoting better community understanding and cooperation with the police. She finds that the public has generally failed to discriminate between the facts and sensational media reporting in passing judgment on police procedures and behavior.

Why the West Windsor police? Because of its relatively small size, progressive outlook, high degree of professionalism, rapid township population growth and the willingness of Chief Francis Maguire to cooperate, Mrs. Budd states.

Mrs. Budd's approach in obtaining her wealth of data consisted of interviews with 46 persons (12 non-residents) in a community attitude survey she conducted; observation of police duties and routine, including patrol, court and communications together with conversations with the men; observation of the New Jersey police training academy in Sea Girt; and a comparison study of the West Windsor police finances with other communities in Mercer County.

Completed in the summer of 1971, the report has been updated to include changes that have altered some of Mrs. Budds' original findings and conclusions. She cautions that her report does not necessarily reflect the opinion of the Township Committee or the West Windsor Police Department.

Some of her overall conclusions: understaffing has resulted in excessive overtime hours which in turn has depressed police morale and reduced individual effectiveness and efficiency ... judges have failed to enforce drug laws and made a mockery of prescribed maximum penalties ... the public is ignorant of drug laws ... taxes allocated to the West Windsor police are being spent effectively and wisely (the total police budget for 1972 is up 42 percent).

The public shows a sincere desire to know more about their police department, community attitudes toward the police are generally favorable ... but there is a lack of willingness by the public to bear the share of law enforcement unless they are victimized. Even then victims don't want to get involved for fear of retaliation.

Municipal offenses were up 62 percent in 1971 over the previous year and West Windsor police conducted 938 investigations yet there is that feeling uncovered by Mrs. Budd among the residents that since nothing ever happens in West Windsor why have such a big police force.

If and when the police there ever find the time, they should file that under the you-can't-win department.

Mutual Lack of Understanding Exists

A commonly held view among West Windsor citizens, says Mrs. Adele Budd in her study of the West Windsor Police Department, is that the police there are not responsive to human wants and needs, nor are they sensitive to emotional stimuli such as stress, fear or misery.

Based on her observations and conversations, Mrs. Budd writes, in one of her findings, continued exposure to fear and misery, has depressed the normal surface responses of the police. She counters this, however, by adding that she finds the West Windsor police are "inwardly responsive and capable of feelings ... and that they possess an above average sense of social obligations."

It is equally apparent, she continues, "that the average citizen of West Windsor is insensitive and unresponsive to the wants and needs of the police on a human and on a professional level."

Whatever the reason for this feeling by the citizens toward the police, Mrs. Budd concludes, it represents a major road block to effective crime control and police-community relations in West Windsor.

Environmental Notes

When one country sneezes, ecologically speaking, its neighbors now have to reach for their handkerchiefs. This is the message from Stockholm where the delegates of the U.N. Conference on the Human Environment met to orchestrate efforts toward international environmental preservation. The Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds, in this part of New Jersey, shows the way to cooperative environmental action on the local level. It comprises 285 sq. miles, and includes five counties and 26 municipalities. It is true that joint undertakings of this kind have to deal with the matter of overlapping political and financial jurisdictions and may encounter questions of social and economic priorities vis-a-vis ecological good practice. The concept of area planning, from the hemisphere to the regional arena, is essential and calls for governmental machinery that will guarantee that all these needs are recognized in the planning process.

What to do until the industrial revolution is recalled by the factory.

Come see the Canes, in Rosemont, New Jersey. They've kept alive the love of handworked woods and simple lines in home furnishings. Most of the things you'll find at Cane Farm are handmade, either right on the farm or in the shops of other artisans. The other pieces, such as our extensive collection of upholstered pieces, are made in factories, true, but they're made by firms who conceal that fact very well. Come see our hundreds of colonial creations and re-creations.

Nautical and very nice lamps of copper and brass and glass. This one, 14" tall, available as kerosene-burning version, or with socket, ready for wiring.

RED CROSS PLANS DRIVE

To Aid Flood Victims. In response to the overwhelming need for help due to the catastrophic flood in Rapid City, South Dakota, the members of the Princeton Red Cross Youth Disaster team will mobilize their workers and organize an area wide drive for emergency funds.

Because they want to give everyone a chance to contribute any sum possible, toward the relief of suffering in Rapid City, the young workers will canvass Hightstown, Cranbury, and East Windsor, West Windsor and Montgomery Townships, as well as both Princetons. Seasoned by their very successful drive for new blood donors a few months ago, the members of Red Cross Youth will use the same collection boxes and place them in the same locations.

This Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the workers will once again man tables in the same locations in all the communities in order to reach as many people as possible.

According to the latest reports, the Red Cross is still feeding more than 3,000 people daily in Rapid City. More than 700 homes were totally destroyed and 1,700 suffered major damage. As a result the Red Cross is providing shelter for over 450 homeless people, even though 200 homes in the safe areas were also opened to the homeless.

Equipped to handle frantic inquiries from all over the country, Red Cross chapters have been able to quickly locate family members and friends. Fortunately, the chapter here has not only found loved ones, it has found them alive and well.

Those who wish to make a donation by check, instead of placing it in one of the collection boxes, may send it to the Princeton Red Cross Chapter Headquarters at 182 North Harrison Street. Checks should be made out to: American Red Cross, and should indicate that the money is for "Black Hills Floods". All facets of this emergency drive have been fully endorsed by the Princeton United Fund.

RARE BIRDS SIGHTED

On New Watersheds Tract. The Redheaded Woodpecker and the Eastern Bluebird, rarely found in New Jersey, are among 178 birds that have been sighted on the new land reserve maintained by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association.

Lists of these and other sightings have been compiled by birders at the property on Wargo Road, Hopewell Township. Two families of Eastern Bluebirds, one of which has newly-hatched young, are now nesting at the Land Reserve.

The 400-acre tract consists of streams, fields, woods, and a 3.5 acre pond. It is located about one and one-half miles south of Hopewell. The Reserve is available for birding with permission of the staff of the Association (737-3735).

A first list of sightings was compiled by Donald S. Heinzelman, Curator of Ornithology, New Jersey State Museum, Trenton. Published last year, it lists 130 species observed since the spring of 1970. Brief comments and documentation are included.

A second list of birds was compiled by Raymond J. Blicharz from observation made by 6 individuals and 4 nature clubs from 1967-1971. Included are 45 additional birds with comments about each.

The lists have proven useful to teachers and clubs, and for the weekend observer. Both lists may be obtained for $1 from the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, P. O Box 171, Pennington, New Jersey 08534.

Piggy Bank to Passbook

Make the transition NOW!

Will this be the summer a child of yours will be earning his—or her—first real money? With his first regular summer job? Or will he be picking up what change he can through lawnmowing and baby sitting? In any case, he's probably going to need your help—help in learning how to handle money. Most kids will wind up after a summer of hard work with nothing lasting to show for it, unless you can help them learn to put aside a part of their income—and regular saving matters more than the amount—in a savings account where their money will be earning more money for them. If you can start them saving—and start them going to Princeton Savings, where saving is our business—your children's summer will account for something. Not only will they have money saved for something really important, they will have started a habit that can lead them to a fuller and more secure life. As an officer of Princeton Savings with children of my own, I can assure you that it's worth doing.

ROSSETTI IS SUBJECT

Of Firestone Display. A sampling of over two hundred items from an outstanding collection on the Pre-Raphaelite English poet and painter Dante Gabriel Rossetti is currently on display in the Main Exhibition Gallery of Princeton University's Harvey S. Firestone Library.

Designed to show the strengths of the collection, purchased by Princeton from Mrs. Janet Camp Troxell, of New Haven, Conn., the display includes letters from and to Rossetti, autograph manuscripts, copies of editions of his poems, material on both Christina and William Rossetti, and items relating to many of the others associated with the Pre-Raphaelite movement — a brotherhood of English painters and poets formed in 1848 to protest against what they contended were the "low standards" of British art.

"The exciting thing about this exhibit is that it shows the association one Pre-Raphaelite had with another," explains Robert S. Fraser, Curator of Rare Books, who arranged the display. It will be open daily through August 6 (Monday to Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m.).

In the exhibit, "The Rossettis and the Pre-Raphaelites: The Janet Camp Troxell Collection," are many items never before shown publicly, Fraser reports. Ten drawings by Rossetti are on loan from Mrs. Troxell, while other items have been drawn from the collections of the Princeton Art Museum and Robert H. Taylor, Princeton Class of 1930, the distinguished collector who chairs the Friends of the Princeton Library.

In addition to a great deal of material on Rossetti himself, other cases are devoted to his younger sister, Christina; to Dante, about whom the Rossettis wrote extensively; to the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood; to such friends as Sir Edward Burne-Jones, Algernon Charles Swinburne, Robert Browning, Jane Morris (one of Rossetti's models), William Bell Scott, William Morris, and others.

SPACE STILL AVAILABLE

On Fall Art Tour. For a few discerning and adventurous travellers there is still room to book on the fourth fabuluos Art Tour of The Friends of the Art Museum of Princeton University, heading out in October for Turkey and Persia.

The Art Tour, which offers a unique travel experience, is also a major fund-raising project of the Friends of the Art Museum: cost of the trip includes a tax-deductible contribution to the Art Museum.

A group of limited size will leave New York for Istanbul on Saturday, October 7, and return via Paris on Saturday, October 28. Reservations are now being accepted, and a few vacancies remain before the tour quota is filled and the final list is drawn up in August. A brochure and information are available at the Art Museum, or from Mrs. Hibben Ziesing, 80 Edgerstoune Road, (924-3160), the Friends' tour chairman.

Ancient history, the archaeological monuments and sites of many civilizations, the Mosques and bazaars of the colorful and exciting cities of today's Turkey and Iran, magnificent and strikingly different mountain scenery, comprise the itinerary of what is far more than just a "luxury tour". The group will be led by Dr. Donald N. Wilber, the distinguished archaeologist and long-time Princeton resident who will accompany the tour as guide and lecturer. Dr. Wilber, an authority on both countries, accompanied a simdar trip to Turkey and Persia sponsored by the Asia Society in 1970. He is the author of some thirteen books on Asiatic countries.

And while such splendid hostelries as the Istanbul Hilton, the Royal Tehran Hilton, the famed Hotel Darius in Persepolis, are among the deluxe accommodations provided throughout, there will also be a stopover at a converted caravanserai in Isfahan, a night's stay at a hotel adjoining the Roman ruins in ancient Hieropolis, luncheons al fresco at archaeological sites, and even a picnic or two along the highways.

A high spot of the trip will be a privileged visit to the site of Aphrodisias, the ancient Greco-Roman city in Anatolian Turkey, whose unearthing is described in the fascinating article by Prof. Kenen T. Erim in the June issue of National Geographic Magazine. Dr. Erim, who is directing the Aphrodisias excavations, is head of the classics department at New York University, and a Princeton resident with a Princeton Ph.D.

The Friends of the Art Museum have conducted three successful trips to European art centers and are considering Venice for next year. The $350 tax-deductible donation which is a part of the tour cost goes directly to the Art Museum, a major contribution of The Friends, who exist "to further the interests of the Art Museum of Princeton University".

SPORTS in Princeton

SANFORD TOP ATHLETE

At PHS, Steve Sanford, who co-captained the Princeton High School football team his senior year, and who also won letters in hockey and lacrosse, was named recipient of the All-Around Athlete Award at an awards dinner held by the school.

Leon Robinson, a junior on the Little Tiger basketball team, won the Wolman Award, the school's highest honor in that sport. It is presented annually in memory of William D. Wolman, a member of the PHS basketball teams of 1932-36 who was killed in action in World War I. It is awarded to the team's outstanding player and sportsman.

Roland Smith won the Jerry Cypress Award, the school's highest honor in track, and the Cross Country Award. He was a consistent winner in the mile and two mile for PHS the past two years.

Lori Bowman, captain of the girls' track team and a standout sprinter, won the Achievement Award and the Lesley Bush Award. The latter is presented in honor of Leslie Bush, PHS student who won an Olympic Gold medal in diving in 1964, to the girl who shows outstanding ability in a sport. The Achievement Award is given to the senior girl who exhibits "exceptional achievement" in sports during her four years at PHS.

The National Girls Athletic Association Award was won by Carrie Bolster, given in recognition for promotion and achievement in girls sports at PHS, while Jane Vial received the Honor Athlete Award.

The honor award rewards the athlete who has shown diversified participation, perseverance, integrity and sportsmanship in sports.

VAUGHAN TO RETIRE

Ends 36 Years of Coaching. Dick Vaughan, who directed Princeton hockey teams to the only two championships the Tigers have won in the sport, will retire at the end of this month after 36 years on the Princeton scene.

A graduate of Yale in 1928, Vaughan was hockey coach here from 1935 through 1959, with a three-year leave of absence during World War II. In 1941, the Orange and Black compiled a 12-3-1 record, winning the Quadrangular League championship with a 7-2 victory over Dartmouth in the final game.

Twelve years later, Vaughan directed the Tigers skaters to the second (and so far, the last) of Princeton's hockey crowns. His 1953 team, 11-7 overall, also waited until its final contest before clinching the Ivy championship with a 5-4 triumph over Dartmouth.

Vaughan first joined Princeton's coaching ranks in the fall of 1935 and led his first Tiger sextet to a 13-8-1 record. He later branched out into a broader sphere, handling freshman baseball for two decades and coaching 150-lb. football over the same span.

Two-Sport Captain. His versatility as a coach evolved from similar versatility as an athlete. At Yale, Vaughan had the unique distinction of being elected captain of both the hockey and baseball teams in his senior year. Following his graduation, he taught English and coached hockey and baseball at Andover, then returned to Yale for graduate study and hockey coaching on the side.

Vaughan's 1954 150-pound football team provided one of the high points of his Princeton career when it won the Eastern Lightweight League championship with a come-from-behind victory over Navy in the last game of the season. The Tigers trailed by 13-6 at halftime but rallied for a 34-21 triumph, the first ever over the Middies in that sport.

The author and editor of several sports texts, the Princeton coach served with Life Magazine from 1943 to 1946, when the University suspended hockey for the duration of World War II. During his Princeton coaching career, he was at one time president of the American Hockey Coaches' Association as well as serving a term as chairman of the United States Olympic Hockey Committee.

One of Princeton's most popular physical education teachers, Vaughan brought to that sometimes unenviable task the same diligence and enthusiasm which marked his coaching career. As he expressed it recently, "For many non-athletes, it is their only exposure to a coach and it can be a rewarding and meaningful experience for them. I tried to bring something of a 'team atmosphere' to my classes, and it was pleasant to be recognized on campus in an appreciative way by many of these young men."

IVY INN GAINS

In Softball League. Ivy Inn continued its regular season mastery over Conte's Bar last week in the Adult Softball league, handing Conte's its first defeat, 5-3.

Although outhit by Conte's, Ivy combined four hits and a walk for four runs in the fourth inning. In its other game, Ivy came from behind to top Andy's Tavern, 12-8, to remain undefeated. Trailing 8-6, Ivy took advantage of some Tavern errors and combined it with solid hitting to score six runs in the sixth to put the game away.

Teague and Hinds kept pace with a pair of wins to keep its record unsullied and share first place with Ivy Inn. The Icemen blasted 14 hits, defeating Staats Electric 6-1, and limiting the losers to six hits. Against Harrison Athletic Club, Dan Alleyne's grand slam was the difference in a 9 to 6 victory.

In other games, HAC shaded Nassau Conover, 4-3, and were blanked, 5-0, by Conte's. Stuart Kirkpatrick batted 3-for-3 in the Conover win.

Grover's Hustlers outslugged Staats 11-9, as the Hustlers, showing improvement with every game, collected 15 hits. Arlice Hines had four of them in a perfect day at the plate.

SPORTS COMPLEX BEGUN

In West Windsor. The Mercer County Park Commission has announced that work has begun on the new athletic complex at Assunpink Park, a 3,000-acre tract in West Windsor, Hamilton and Lawrence townships. This is the first phase of an extensive program being planned for the development of cultural and recreational facilities in the park.

Richard J. Coffee, president of the commission, said that work is now being done on two baseball fields, two softball fields, two combination softball-football fields and eight basketball courts. Although work has been slowed by the heavy rains of recent weeks, the fields may be ready this summer. Located at Old Trenton and South Post roads in West Windsor, the facilities will have lighting for night play.

The development of the Assunpink and Rosedale parks (formerly Stony Brook Park), which will give Mercer County some of the best multi-purpose park complexes in the nation, are among the high priority projects of the Park Commission.

Assunpink Park, which will have a perimeter of 10 miles, is to be developed on a 3,000-acre single tract in West Windsor, Hamilton and Lawrence Townships. The feature of the Assunpink project will be a 200-acre lake to be used for water recreation an fishing. A stadium, arena, theatre, golf courses, tennis center, zoo and children's playlands are being planned. There will also be facilities for horseback riding, hiking trails, a children's recreation area and facilities for senior citizens.

Similar development is being planned for Rosedale Park, a 472-acre area in Hopewell Township.

ETS DROPS TO SECOND

Forrestal Ahead in PBSL. An evening of inter-division play in the Business Softball League last week proved to be beneficial for Forrestal. While it knocked off FMC, 11-10, McGraw-Hill nipped ETS, 7 6, giving Forrestal a one game lead in the Eastern Division.

FMC, meanwhile, fell two games off the pace in the Western Division, as McGraw-Hill continued unbeaten.

Willy Wicker's four for four with a homer and Joe Frangippani's three for three with a homer led Forrestal to its victory. Jack Barto was the winning pitcher, giving up round trippers to Bob Gibilisco and Walt Bullock.

A last-ditch rally by ETS fell a run short in the bottom od the seventh against McGraw-Hill. Will Lane's triple with two on and two out closed the three-run deficit to one, but Lane was caught between third and home in a run down for the final out.

Tom Wood, who went three for three on the evening, scored what proved to be the winning run in the top of the seventh when he scored from second base on a long sacrifice fly by Ang Vasti.

RCA A won its fifth game and moved into a second place tie with ETS, by beating American Cyanamid, 6-3. Three runs in the fourth brought the victors even with Cyanamid; they then added the winning run in the fifth and two insurance markers in the sixth. Winning pitcher Tom Ward held the losers to just three hits over the last four innings.

ERC, with Mike De Angelo's four hits leading the way, had little trouble disposing of Shearer Tree, 22-5. John Haselman had three hits for the winners, and Bob Heinz and Dick Harmon hit home runs.

In a contest between the league's two newest entries, GFDL came up with eight runs in the sixth inning, good for a 19-17 triumph over NAPLC. Firmenich won its first game of the season, an 11-8 decision over RCA B. Rick Jensen had three hits, and Bob Daunais and Bob Elkins two apiece for Firmenich. Daunais also belted a home run.

Hopewell TV, got fine pitching by Joe Castora, who limited Cities Service to just three hits and no runs, for a 10-0 win. Ray Whited went three for three with a homer for Hopewell.

ROMA WINS PAIR

To Remain Undefeated. Roma Eterna won a pair of extra inning games last week to become the lone undefeated team in the Princeton Youth Baseball Association Little League. Its record is 4-0.

Thursday in its showdown game with Hook & Ladder at Community Park—each team entered the game with a 3-0 record — Roma scored in every inning but the third. H & L refused to be shaken, however, and tied the game in the bottom of the sixth at the end of regulation play. Joe Lapsley's single with two outs and the bases loaded was the big hit but the potential winning run was called out at home.

Roma then countered with four runs in the seventh, two coming on John Boccanfuso's double. H & L managed one run in its turn at bat to make it an 11-8 final. Dave Fitzgerald and winning pitcher Seth Sanders led Roma with three hits apiece.

Earlier, Roma watched again as it was tied in the sixth, this time by Post 76 which scored four runs to earn a 6-6 deadlock. Bobby Cronin then homered in the seventh to put the Post ahead by one.

His hero's role was soon eclipsed when he walked in the winning Roma run in the same inning. Fitzgerald had three of Roma's nine hits, while Scott Trani also homered for the losers.

Hook & Ladder, in its other game last week, combined some steady hitting with numerous walks to trounce Engine No. 1, 17-5. The H & L attacked featured three hits by Jerry Moyer, Al Kendall's bases - loaded triple and four RBIs by Charles Waahen. Defensive stars for the victors were Jeff Johnson, who came up with two driving catches at short, and Louis Davis.

Robert Mangone, Tom Bolster and Bob Littel each rapped two hits for Engine No. 1.

Engine No. 1 won its first game, scoring nine runs in the first four innings and then holding off a late rally by the Italian - American Sportsmen's Club to win, 9-7. Morgan Mohrman fanned 11 and had three hits for the Firemen. He was backed at the plate by Tom Bolster, David Miller and Bobby Willis. Mario Mangone and Dave Sally led IASC in hitting.

In other Thursday games, Eagles blanked Elks, 0-0, for their second shutout of the week, and Post 76 evened its record at 2-2 by clubbing Engine No. 2, 16-4. In the Eagle victory, Jim Baxter gave up only two hits, one by Kiernan Esposito and the other by Mike King. Richard Johnson and John Silverman homered for the Eagles.

Walt Snickenberger Hopes for Reinstatement

Walt Snickenberger, the two-sport athlete who has been notified by Princeton that his academic standing will necessitate his withdrawal from the University, plans to appeal his case.

A University spokesman said that the question of his spring term grades hinges on a term paper which the Department of English reports he failed to hand in. Snickenberger, however, has told football coach Jake McCandless that he completed the paper on time, took it to the proper office, which he found closed on a Saturday morning, and slipped it under the door.

When the paper did not reach the faculty member in charge of the course in literature in which Snickenberger was enrolled, the Tiger sophomore was given a failing grade in the subject. It is understood that this mark was decisive in the University's ruling that he withdraw from college.

Snickenberger reportedly has a copy of the paper in question, plans to submit it as evidence of having met the requirements, and hopes for reinstatement.

The top holdover running back on the football team, he had been counted on as the keystone of the Tigers' offense this fall. In hockey, he was the first line center and, in his junior year, a co-captain-elect.

Post 76 exploded for 20 hits against No. 3, including Woody Clark's home run. Scott Trani and Mark Taylor had four each, Steve Smith and Doug Ferguson two each and Bobby Cronin had three: Single, double and triple.

Earlier in the week, Eagles shutout Engine No. 3 behind the three-hit hurling of John Silverman, again by an 8-0 score, and IASC topped Elks, 5-2. In the latter, David Sally picked up his second win, aided by a clutch triple by Mike Henniger. David Wilson homered and scored both Elk runs for the losers.

The standings:

DOUBLES TITLE WON

In Upset. Bill Foreman, resident professional at the Nassau Tennis & Racquet Club on Route 206 and Ed Faulkner of Cranbury, won the N. J. State Men's Double Tournament Sunday when they upset Peter Fleming and Charles Daus in the finals, 7-5, 6-7, 6-1. Seeded fourth, they earlier defeated the second seeded team en route to victory, their first state doubles championship.

Foreman is a 1968 graduate of Rutgers where he was the number one singles and doubles player. He recently became the resident pro at the Nassau Tennis Club located in Belle Mead.

LUCAR WINS 1ST HALF

In Babe Ruth League. Lucar Hardware won two of three games last week to take the first half of the West Windsor Babe Ruth League with a 5-1 record.

Will's Shell ended a game behind at 4-2, while Lions Club was 2-4 and Harbourt Air Freight, 1-5. The second half opens this week with play on the Maurice Hawk School diamond.

After defeating Lions, 8-4, on the hitting of Jim Mellor, Don Hutchinson, Bill Schroeder and Mark Diezemann, Lucar clinched the first-half title with a 6-1 victory over Harbourt. Steve Ivey went all the way on the mound for Lucar to get the win. He was backed offensively again by Mellor, who tripled and singled, and by Hutchinson and Diezemann who banged a pair of singles each.

Harbourt's hitters were Dick Young, two singles, and John Costas and David Kodner.

After the first-half race had been decided, Lucar dropped a 2-1 decision to Will's Shell. The only two hits in the contest were singles by Lucar's Joe Czeslowski and Will's Mike Shaddow.

Earlier, Will's had stayed in contention as Daryl MacPherson tossed a one-hitter against Harbourt for a 6-0 decision. Jim Howard's double and Mike Wient's two singles paced Will's attack.

Will's was eliminated, however, the next time out when it was edged, 2-1, by Lions in extra innings.

Ted Servis went all the way for Lions to get the win. He aided his own cause by singling in the ninth when Steve Jones, Ron Rodger and Kevin Syberg also singled to score both Lion runs. Mike Howard tripled home Will's lone run in the same inning.

SAILING SERIES ENDS

Ed Metcalf Sunfish Champ. After 13 Sundays of racing, the Carnegie Sailing Club's spring series ended last week with Ed Metcalf, a frequent winner in other sailing classes, ending in first place in the Sunfish competiiton.

It was close. Metcalf had lost his lead to Bob Holzman on Sunday after three races but he came back to win the last two. Final standings had Metcalf on top with a 3.04 average, followed by Holzman (3.12), Walt Gibson (3.19), John Hopfield (3.26) and John Kunz (3.70) to round out the top five.

The Sunfish class has established itself as the dominant fleet in the club. Thirty-two skippers competed during the spring series and the fleet sailed every Sunday regardless of weather conditions. (The series began in a March gale that caused several boats to capsize and ended in a June squall.)

The Sloop class, hamstrung by a lack of competitors, completed an abbreviated 10-race series with Hector Poventud earning top honors. Paul Porter and Frank Ridgway were runners-up.

The club will end its sailing activity until after Labor Day with a Bermuda Crown Special on Sunday. Skippers exchange boats after each race to average-out boat differences. Eight boats will compete.

BLUE, RED TRIUMPH

In Opening Lacrosse Games. Outscoring Green, 8-0, in the second half, Blue ended with a convincing 17-5 win and Red scored in every period to defeat Navy, 9-3, in opening games last week in the Princeton Summer Lacrosse League.

Games are played every Thursday night at Marquand Park, starting at 5:30.

In crushing Green, Blue received four goals each from Jim Kopliner and Brad Faus. Pete McCrohan added three more, while Mark Cleary, Stuart Fraser and Grant Pet-

BUSINESS In Princeton

SAKS CLOSES

Who Will New Tenant Be? Saks Fifth Avenue has closed its men's store branch at 46 Nassau Street.

The store's lease with Palmer Square, Inc. ends July 31, but the shop closed its door to customers at the end of the business day last Saturday. The decision from New York, rumored in Princeton's retail community for some time, came suddenly last Wednesday, according to William Duprez, manager of the Princeton shop for the past three years.

Saks has had its Princeton outlet at 46 Nassau for about 25 years. It was in a row of men's clothing shops, including its next-door neighbor, Langrock's, The English Shop, Country Squire and Harry Ballot's.

Fred M. Blaicher, president of Palmer Square, says he hopes for a decision on the new tenant early in July. Three present Palmer Square tenants, whom he declined to identify, originally expressed an interest in the Saks space, but one has backed out, he said.

The store has only 1,000 square feet of sales space. Retailers in the area are speculating that either Langrock's or Saks' neighbor on the other decide to expand into the area, side. LaVake Jewelers, might Both have expanded in recent years.

A present Palmer Square shop might decide to open a branch at 46 Nassau, Mr. Blaicher hinted. He said he has a list of non-Palmer Square tenants eager for the spot, but Palmer Square rent - payers come first.

Monthly rents in that section of Nassau are about $8 per square foot.

BOUTIQUE TO OPEN

At Nassau Tennis Club. The Nassau Racquet & Tennis Club will mark the opening next Thursday, the 29th, of its Pro Shop Tennis Boutique with a champagne and fashion show. Tickets ($3) for the 8 p.m. event may be purchased at the door or in advance at the club on Route 206 in Belle Mead.

Men's and women's tennis clothing and equipment will be shown. The Pro Shop will carry brand names such as Head, Wilson, Dunlop, Fred Perry and Court I.

ATTENDS AD SEMINAR

For University Store. Mrs. Emily Stang, advertising manager of the Princeton University Store, participated last week in the 24th annual workshop on retail advertising copy sponsored by the New York University Institute of Retail Management.

The five-day series of workshops was attended by approximately 30 advertising executives from stores throughout the United States and Canada. Mrs. Stang has been advertising manager of the University Store for the past eight years.

VICE-PRESIDENTS NAMED

At First National. The continuing growth in size, services and facilities of the First National Bank has lead to the appointment of two senior vice-presidents, John F. Hoff, President, announced this week.

Mr. Hoff announced the promotion of Arthur L. Everett of Princeton to the position of Senior Vice-President and Cashier and the appointment of Charles S. Dickerson of Hatfield, Pa., to the bank staff as Senior Vice-President.

"We are providing more banking services to more families and businesses than ever before", Mr. Hoff commented, "and this has created the demand for an expansion of our senior management team."

Mr. Everett has been with First National since 1930, when he started as a bookkeeper. In a career of steadily increasing responsibility, he was elected Cashier in 1954 and Vice-President five years later.

Varied Activities. Mr. Everett and his wife live at 254 Washington Road. Long active in Princeton-area civic and banking activities, Mr. Everett is an elder, trustee and chairman of the finance and building committees of the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck. He serves West Windsor Township as a member of the Tax Evaluation Committee, Nassau Savings and Loan Association as a director, and the Princeton Chamber of Commerce as treasurer and director.

A member of the American Institute of Banking, Mr. Everett is a trustee of the New Jersey Bankers Association Insurance Fund and an administrator of the Association's Administrative Agency.

FINALS SATURDAY

In Springdale Golf. Postponed by Sunday's steady rain, the final round in the Springdale Golf Club championship will be played Saturday.

The contestants over a 36-hole route will be Maury Mather and Moore Gates, Jr. Mather won the title three years ago, while the highest Gates has finished in the annual event is runner-up.

While Mather was eliminating Jack Sweeney, 2 and 1, last week, Gates had to rally to defeat Bill Paine, another former titleholder. Gates had Paine dormie one on the 10th tee but bogeyed the par 4 hole while Paine was down in regulation figures. Gates then won the match on the first extra hole with a birdie 3.

Robert Lewis won two matches to reach the finals of the first flight. He, too, went 19 holes to win from Jack Houghton and then topped Gil Spencer, 4 and 3. His opponent will be Charlie Foster, 1 2 up victor over Joe Masick.

Bob Olson eliminated Ralph Allaire, 2 and 1, in the semi-finals of the second flight. His opponent will be Asa Farr, whose last two victories were over Mac Morris and Harold Crane.

Winners have been determined in the last two flights. In the third, Kline Fulmer scored consecutive 1-up victories over Jack Petrone and Harry Volwieder. The fourth flight was won by Doug Walmsley with a 2-and-1 triumph over Bob Mc Carthy.

FIRST LEGION WIN

For Princeton Post 76. After three opening losses, Princeton Post 76 captured its first victory in its first season of Legion ball Saturday when it defeated Hightstown Post 143 at Peddie Field, 6-3.

John Mooney pitched all nine innings for the victors, walking six and striking out three to even his record at 1-1. Touched for 12 hits, he was saved by fine defensive play.

Princeton got two in the first when it combined two walks and a hit batsman to load them up and Gary Drake followed with a single.

Two more walks, a bunt single by Drake and a two-run throwing error produced two more runs in the sixth. Princeton scored its final two in the seventh. Boccanfuso singled home Mike Carlussi who had walked and Wren Scott who had gotton on when the Hightstown pitcher threw wildly to first, after fielding his bunt.

Outhit, 12 to 5, Princeton was rescued by three double plays, one by Boccanfuso unassisted. Between the second and sixth inning, Hightstown had a total of 10 men on base without an out, yet failed to score.

Last Wednesday, Princeton was edged, 3-2, by Hopewell Post 339. Losing pitcher Lance Marshall gave up six hits and three runs, striking out two and walking one.

Princeton scored one in the first when Mooney singled home Drake who had advanced to third on a single and error. Hopewell tied it in the fourth and took a 2-1 lead in the sixth. Singles by Chris Crane, Boccanfuso and Dudley Woodbridge tied it again but Hopewell scored another run in the seventh to win its first of the season.

Princeton Post 76 is slotted in the northern division along with Ewing Post 314, Lawren Post 414, Hopewell, and N. Trenton Post 458.

In the southern division are Hamilton PAL Post 313, Trenton Post 93, Hamilton Post 31, Hightstown and Bordentown Post 26. All Princeton home games are played at Princeton University's Clarke Field.

Princeton will be at home Monday against Hamilton PAL Post 313. It was scheduled to entertain Lawrence Post 411 this Wednesday.

She emphasized that people from the community are welcome. The services are planned for adults and there is babysitting available.

In the current series, two Sundays are planned by the adult worship committee and this Sunday, a group of church members who have been involved in family activities will explore the theme, "Families Together, Potential for Experience."

Surround yourself with trees, grass and history.

There's plenty of all three on what may be the highest spot between New York and Philadelphia. Certainly it's one of the most historic, if not the most beautiful. ■ Just 15 homes will be custom built from your plans or ours abutting Greenacres Country Club Golf Course. Each will share in a sweep of common land . . . and in views and privacy all but vanished these days. ■ Isn't all this worth $50,000 or more?

JINGLESTONE

Has a merry ring to it and so does this entire property. Not a formal place but it has been authentically restored to the warmth of its colonial era. (1725)

Several items shine above all this excellence. The old brick of the kitchen floor and the handcrafted walnut cabinets. The pointed stone along the stair is a perfect background for a small collection of etchings. And above all, several fireplaces, each one the "piece de resistance" of an ordinary colonial.

The house is totally adaptable with its 4 bedrooms, 1½ baths; on 5 acres in a quiet almost isolated corner of Hunterdon County. It is completed with a fantastic old stone barn studio. $100,000

LIVE IN A BARN AND LIKE IT. 150 years ago the Amish people built this huge barn. Now a modern master craftsman is remodelling it in excellent taste. The massive pegged beams remain. You'll have a feeling of the spaciousness of a Vermont ski ledge in this 22x32 living room with center fireplace. There's a modern eat-in kitchen, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, a 26x30 rec. room with original stone walls. A two car attached garage is being added and the exterior is rough cedar siding. It'll make a beautiful country estate of $89,000. Extras are easy maintenance and plenty of room to add a swimming pool.

WANT PEOPLE TO LOOK UP TO YOU? Everyone who drives by stares up at this unusual house. It's high on a heavily wooded hillside. It enjoys a commanding view of woods and valley. It's built of stone and has a marble and redwood interior with three stone fireplaces. There is much glass area so well oriented that the sun provides winter warmth yet the trees prevent undue summer heat. It's offered in an unfinished state in the low 80's. Phone for details.

MONTGOMERY TWP. HIDE-A-WAY. You'll find this home so convenient to Princeton yet secluded on its 3½ acres. There's a lot of glass area to enjoy the view. There's 2 huge porches to enjoy the outdoors. There's 4 bedrooms and 2 full baths, 2 half baths, and a 3 car carport plus a planned in-law apartment that you could readily finish to your liking.
Asking $71,500
